Confidence drops sharply on lockdowns

- Consumer confidence dropped by 3.9% as a number of regions across the nation remained under a lockdown or with significant restrictions as the states attempted to contain the new COVID outbreak.
- All the subindices registered a fall. 'Current financial conditions' fell 2.6%, while 'future financial conditions' softened 1.9%.
- 'Current economic conditions' declined 7.0%, with the proportion of people expecting 'good times' for the economy less than those expecting 'bad times' for the first time since April. 'Future economic conditions' dropped 4.1%.
- 'Time to buy a major household item' decreased by 4.4%. 'Weekly inflation expectations' fell by 0.3ppt to 3.8%, with the four-week moving average down 0.1ppt to 4.0%.

ANZ-Roy Morgan Consumer Confidence and inflation expectations

Last weekend (3-4 Jul)	Weekly change, %	Four-week average	Monthly average since 1990	Inflation expectations (four-week ma)
107.8	-3.9%	110.9	112.6	4.0%

This weekly ANZ-Roy Morgan Australian Consumer Confidence Rating is based on 1,510 interviews conducted online and over the telephone on the weekend. Not seasonally adjusted. Further data history on page 6.

ANZ Head of Australian Economics, David Plank, commented:

Consumer confidence dropped 3.9% over the past week to its lowest level since the first week of April. The fall came as lockdowns and restrictions broadened across a number of states to control the spread of the more infectious Delta variant of the pandemic. The drop in sentiment wasn't confined to those areas directly impacted by restrictions. For instance, while it fell by 8.9% in Sydney it also declined by 1.6% in the rest of NSW. Confidence fell in most other cities as well: Brisbane (-7.7%), Melbourne (-2.7%) and Adelaide (-6.5%). With the lockdowns in Brisbane and Perth coming to an end, we can expect confidence, and consumer spending, to rebound reasonably quickly given past experience, but much will depend on whether restrictions in Sydney are able to be eased.
